June 2016

June is National Aphasia Awareness month. Aphasia is a impairment of the ability to speak or comprehend words and may be caused by a stroke, vascular dementia, or other brain injuries. If you suffer from aphasia, here are some tips that will help you get by in your day to day life.

wrapper and show the employee so they can assist you. When at a restaurant, point to menu item if you cannot say it.

5. Take your time. A common symptom is to respond "yes" when what you really mean "no." Take the time you need to say what you mean.

6. Use communication aids such as a piece of paper with the alphabet on it or pictures of some common activities.

8. Carry an identification "business card" with your name, emergency contacts, physician's name and telephone number, and this message: "I have aphasia, which is an impairment of the ability to speak and/or understand words."

Remember to ask for help if you need it!!

1. Interact with family/close friends. This interaction is important for them to understand the situation and deter frustration.
2. Inform conversational partners. Let them know your condition if you intend to have an in-depth discussion.
3. Provide feedback. If someone is speaking too fast, ask them to speak slower.
4. Use visuals. When grocery shopping, bring in the empty product
