

"When the squirrels hide their acorns,
And the woodchucks disappear;
Then we know that it is autumn,
Loveliest season of the year."

-Carol L. Riser

Beaver Moon

Colonial Americans and the Algonquin Native American Tribe referred to November's full moon marked the time of year that beaver traps needed to be set before the swamps froze, ensuring a supply of warm furs for the coming winter. Another name for the November full moon is the frost moon.
